Director General's Message

Profile -The African Minerals and Geosciences Centre (AMGC), formerly known as SEAMIC is a diplomatic and intergovernmental Pan-African Centre of Excellence for mineral services including training, analysis and consultancy. The Centre was established in 1977 in Dar es Salaam, Tanzania by UNECA and founder member states are Ethiopia, Mozambique, Tanzania, Angola, Comoros, Uganda, Kenya and Sudan. Membership to the Centre is open to all other African countries. The AMGC mission is to promote socio-economic and environmentally responsible geosciences-mining sector development in Africa. As a Centre of Excellence, AMGC works under the umbrella of both UNECA and AUC for technically implementing on ground Geological & Mineral Information (GMIS) Strategy of African Mining Vision (AMV) endorsed by the African Heads of States. A tripartite collaboration between the AMGC, International Conference on Great Lakes Region (ICGLR), and German Bundesanstalt fuer Geowissenschaften und Rohstoffe (BGR) has established an Analytical Fingerprint (AFP) laboratory at AMGC for analysis of conflict minerals in the African Great Lakes Region. AMGC strives to bridge the technical gap between the African geoscientific academic institutes and the need of the Extractive Industry in Africa. The Centre will start soon a new trainings on Petroleum and Gas in collaboration with an Egyptian Petroleum Consultant, Earth Resources Exploration (EREX) Company after MoU already signed between AMGC and EREX for collaboration on training in the fields of petroleum geosciences to be carried out at AMGC premises and/or EREX in Cairo, Egypt. The joint training courses will pave the way for establishment of a Fossil Fuel Department in AMGC as well as its development to be a Pan-African Centre of Excellence for an Extractive Industry.
